

GRACE SHOT HIMSELF, HIS WIFE TELLS JURY

Says They Were Struggling for a Pistol with Which He Wanted to Shoot Her.

TELLS OF ANOTHER WOMAN

Once Threatened Her Life for Insisting He Go to Work,
She Declares—He Ridiculous Story.

Atlanta, Aug. 1.—With the cynical face of her husband glaring at her from the pillow of his cot, Mrs. Daisy Opie Grace told her story to-day to the jury that is to decide if she is guilty of the charge of attempting to kill Grace. "I did not shoot Mr. Grace, and he knows it! As God is my judge that is the solemn truth!" she exclaimed, dramatically, and Grace's lips parted in a cynical smile. It was a remarkable story, told in a calm, even voice, without a pause, as though it had been well rehearsed. Mrs. Grace occupied almost an hour in telling her story, and at its conclusion the defence rested. As she did not make the statement under oath the prosecution was denied the privilege of cross-examination. The state then put on one or two witnesses in rebuttal and rested.

Five hours are to be divided by the two sides in summing up. The case is expected to go to the jury about noon to-morrow.

Efforts of the prosecution to have Grace sworn to rebut the statement of the accused woman did not succeed. Judge Row ruled that under the Georgia law a husband was not competent to testify against his wife.

Were Scuffling for Pistol.

Mrs. Grace declared, in her statement, that Grace shot himself during a scuffle with her for possession of a pistol with which he was trying to shoot her. It was not the first time he had attempted to kill her, she said. Last summer, after she had made her will in his favor at his insistence, she said he tried to throw her overboard from a steamer on which they were travelling from New York to St. John's, she testified, he held a pistol at her head, declaring he would kill her if she did not stop talking to him about going to work. She said he had beaten her and choked her frequently.

From the time she met him until the day of the shooting she said she had given him $15,000 in cash.

Soon after they came to Atlanta, last November, Mrs. Grace said she began to realize her husband was neglecting her. Another woman began calling him up over the telephone, and when she would say anything to him about it he would get mad. As he usually beat her when they quarrelled, she declared she was careful not to arouse his anger.

Constant Drain on Her Funds.

Then Grace went into the building business, but with such poor success that he was constantly draining on her money. Finally he prevailed upon her to give him power of attorney to go to Philadelphia and sell her home. He was to leave on the morning of the shooting, she going to the home of his mother to stay during his absence. Grace awoke that morning feeling badly, and she suggested that they defer their departure until the next day.

"His manner was very suspicious," she said, "and I made up my mind that he was trying to get me out of Atlanta so he could take a woman with him, or worse still, into my own home."

She said Lawrence, Grace's partner, called up about 11 o'clock and asked her to tell Grace he had just received a sum of money and things were looking brighter. Mrs. Grace said she commented that he could wait before leaving her home if business was picking up. "At this suggestion, he raised his voice very loudly, cursing and abusing me."

She said she was convinced there was a woman connected with the trip, and told Grace as much. "As I said this," she continued, "Grace was lying on the bed. His coat was hanging just behind him as he was lying." She said she took out of the pocket of the coat the power of attorney papers she had given to him, which she intended to throw in the fire. When Grace saw what she was doing he jumped out of bed and grabbed her. In the ensuing scuffle the shooting occurred.

"Oh, 'Gene, are you hurt?" she said she asked. She stated that he replied:

"Told Wife to Get Out of Here."

"I have only got a scratch. All I want you to do is to hush and get out of here."

She said she wanted to call up a doctor, but Grace refused to permit her, and insisted she should go. He said: "If this thing should get out in a neighborhood like this all my business and social prospects would be gone forever." She said he told her to take the pistol with her, lock the doors, and he could slip out to see a doctor after dark. She said she left the pistol downstairs, because she could not get it in her handbag. Then she went to Newman. Before she left she said he made her kiss a Bible and swear she would never tell what had happened.

Grace's only comment after his wife had finished her story was: "It sounds silly to me. Doesn't it to you?"

DINERS SCARED BY FIRE

Rush from Delmonico's and Hotel Lorraine.

Diners in the Hotel Lorraine and Delmonico's rushed to the street last night when flames burst from the roof of the building at No. 55 Fifth avenue, but were quickly reassured when the firemen arrived and got the blaze under control.

The sufferers from the fire were Auty & Nelson, M. S. Rowland and Malson & Cowan, all ladies' tailors. The total loss was about $5,000.

LOVE FOR CHILDREN MANIA

Stellia Rubin, Who Kidnapped
Little Girl, Sent to Asylum.

Stellia Rubin, the twenty-year-old girl who was accused of kidnapping little Sophie Weissberg, five years old, was committed to the Central Islip asylum yesterday by Judge O'Sullivan in General Sessions. A commission, appointed at the request of her counsel, William D. Boster, and his wife, Frieda Thomas Boster, had reported that the young woman was insane.

Sophie Weissberg disappeared from the home of her parents, at No. 205 West 15th street, on June 5. Two days later she was returned, and Stellia Rubin was arrested as she was running up the stairs of the elevated station near by. She acknowledged that she had taken the little girl, saying that she had been captivated by the dimple in Sophie's chin.

During the two days that the child stayed with her she took excellent care of it, and spent her last cent buying clothes and food for it. After two days she began to appreciate that it was not right to keep the little girl, and borrowed the carfare to take her home. Mrs. Boster, her counsel, said that when she visited Stellia in the Tombs she found the girl crying over a hair ribbon, which she had kept as a reminder of Sophie.

In sending Stellia to Central Islip Judge O'Sullivan said that it was evident that her love for children amounted to a mania.

FIRE CHIEF IN RUNAWAY

Spencer Behind Same Horse
That Killed Chief Rush.

The big fire horse Victor, which caused the death of Battalion Chief John Rush a few months ago, when he ran away and overturned the buggy, added another runaway to the five he already had to his credit by bolting yesterday morning when Battalion Chief John Spencer was being driven to the quarters of Engine Company 50, at Spring and Varick streets.

The horse became frightened at an automobile in Varick street and broke into a gallop, despite the efforts of the driver, John Foote. At Grand street Dennis Dermody, twenty-five years old, of No. 52 West street, attempted to stop the runaway, but, missing a leap for the bridle, was struck by the buggy wheel and thrown to the pavement, being badly bruised.

A block further on the horse ran into a pushcart and was heavily thrown. Chief Spencer leaped to the street and aided the driver to hold the animal's head down until help arrived. The right front wheel of the buggy was smashed and the harness broken. Spencer said that he would recommend that the horse be disposed of.

BOY'S BODY FOUND IN RIVER

Police Are Unable to Make Identification.

Boys playing at the recreation pier at the foot of Market street, East River, last night saw the body of a five-year-old boy floating in the water. They got the body to shore and notified Patrolman Truget of the Madison street station. The body was turned over to the police of Harbor Squad A and later taken to the morgue.

There were no marks of violence on the body, which was that of a well-nourished child. The police compared their list of missing children with the description of the body, but found no clew to its identity. The body had been in the water less than twenty-four hours, in the opinion of the police.

The boy was four feet in height, had black hair and wore a black and white striped waist, gray trousers, with a red and green stripe, and a white cotton undershirt. On the small finger of his right hand was a gold ring set with a ruby and a pearl.

QUITS THE REFORMED CHURCH

The Rev. John B. Voorhees Accepts
Hartford Congregational Call.

The Rev. John Voorhees, secretary of the Board of Domestic Missions of the Reformed Church in America, who headquarters in this city, has resigned to accept the pastorate of the Asylum Hill Congregational Church, Hartford, Conn., beginning October 1. He will, it is said, also resign October 1, his position as secretary of the Board of Domestic Missions.

Mr. Voorhees leaves general work for local pastoral work because he says he likes the latter better. He is the third Reformed Church minister to quit the Reformed Church for the Congregational within a few years and become pastor of a leading Hartford church. The other two are the Rev. Dr. Rockwell H. Potter, who went from the Reformed Church in Flushing to the First Church, Hartford, and the Rev. Irving H. Berg, who went from Catskill last April to the Second Church in the same city.

RENTAL RECEIVER NAMED

Trust Company Takes Steps to Protect Skyscraper Bondholders.

Judge Noyes, of the Federal Court, has appointed Samuel Park receiver of rents of the twenty-story store building at the northeast corner of Fifth avenue and 51st street, in a suit brought against the Fifth Avenue Investing and Improvement Company, the Improved Property Holding Company and others by the Standard Trust Company, as trustee for bondholders.

The Fifth Avenue Investing and Improvement Company made a mortgage on the property on April 1, 1909, to secure an issue of bonds of $500,000, of which $250,000 are outstanding. The company conveyed the property on December 4, 1911, to the Improved Property Holding Company, which went into the hands of receivers on May 22. A large part of the property is not rented. The rentals now are about $125,000 a year, while the fixed charges are $150,000.

There are two prior mortgages on the property aggregating $225,000, and there are interest and taxes amounting to $75,000 due. In order to prevent foreclosure of the first and second mortgages, the bondholders have advanced money to pay the interest and taxes.

SAY WOMAN TRIED SUICIDE

New York Coal Merchant's Wife Arrested on Staten Island.

Mrs. Margaret Allen, thirty-five years old, wife of George Allen, a New York coal merchant, who lives at No. 174 East 24th street, Brooklyn, is accused of having attempted to commit suicide last evening in the coal office of J. Irving Johnson, at No. 447 Bay street, Stapleton, Staten Island, by taking bichloride of mercury.

She was attended by Dr. Goodwin, of Stapleton, who used a stomach pump, and was taken later to St. Vincent's Hospital at Livingston. It was said at the hospital that she probably would recover. She is a prisoner at the hospital.

NO CLEW TO GIRL'S DEATH

Authorities Fail to Unravel Mystery of Snodgrass Case.

PETROLEUM IN ETHER CAN

Catskill Girl Almost Sure She Saw Nurse and Miss Danby
Together Two Weeks Ago.

Catskill, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Greene County officials to-night admitted that they were at a standstill in their efforts to unravel the mystery of the death of Miss Dorcas I. Snodgrass, the Mount Vernon nurse, whose body was found in Dubois Creek here last Sunday. District Attorney Wilbur said to-night that the officials had followed every clew, but had not been able to learn anything to solve the mystery.

"I was informed to-day," said Mr. Wilbur, "that Miss Snodgrass's sister, Mrs. John L. Crider, left Mount Vernon to-day for California, and that she was satisfied that no suspicious circumstances surrounded her sister's death. In view of that fact I can see no reason for an additional expenditure of the county's money unless something tangible develops. We shall, of course, continue to investigate anything that seems to point to a solution."

The District Attorney added that Dr. Rooney, of Albany, reported that the can labelled "ether" found yesterday in Dubois Creek contained only some petroleum product, "probably a metal polish discarded by some yachtman."

Miss Margaret Delmore, of Catskill, living opposite the Dubois farm, was said to have thought she had seen Miss Snodgrass two weeks ago. When Miss Delmore saw a picture of Miss Snodgrass and one of Miss Danby, she was "almost positive" that both women were the ones seen by her on either July 15 or 16. She described the younger girl as being the taller of the two, apparently about sixteen, and her companion about twenty-five.

Mrs. John Leland Crider, of No. 13 Wallace avenue, Mount Vernon, sister of Miss Snodgrass, said yesterday, in speaking of the theory that the girl had inhaled ether before falling or throwing herself into the creek, that Miss Snodgrass never used ether.

"Dorcas may have used powders occasionally, but I do not believe she did," said Mrs. Crider. "Her method was to eat sparingly or not at all. This she found to be a better cure than drugs. She seldom had headaches, however, and they began only during the very warm weather this summer."

F. Eugene Schmidt, of Mount Vernon, to whom Miss Snodgrass was engaged, said that he never knew her to take anything for headaches. At the Mount Vernon Hospital, where Miss Snodgrass was studying to be a nurse, it was said that no other has been missed from the institution.

MISS DANBY STAGE STRUCK

Lost Girl Had Talked of Running off
To Be an Actress.

Though Police Lieutenant Atwell has found little encouragement in his search for Miss Amelia Danby, sixteen years old, who has been missing since July 15, four days before her friend, Miss Dorcas I. Snodgrass, disappeared, he has learned that the girl had a desire to go away to be a nurse, such as Miss Snodgrass intended to be.

Some of her friends have told the police official that she also had a desire to go on the stage, and had talked of running away from home for that purpose. He believes the girl is in New York City.

THINK MAN MURDER VICTIM

Dies in Bellevue After Being Found
Unconscious in Hallway.

A man who was found unconscious under the stairway of the tenement house at No. 234 Third avenue on Tuesday evening, with a hammer by his side, died in Bellevue Hospital last night. There is no clew to his identity. He died from a fractured skull, and it is the opinion of the Bellevue doctors that he was hit with the hammer that was found near him.

Edward Halley, janitor of the tenement house, found the man. He had seen him, apparently asleep, three hours previously, and had decided not to bother him. Later, when he went to arouse him, he found the man was unconscious.

The man was about forty-five years old, 5 feet 3 inches in height, weighed 150 pounds. His hair was slightly tinged with gray. He had blue eyes and wore black coat and trousers, a striped shirt, yellow half hose and black shoes. The body was removed to the Morgue.

UNHURT IN LONG FALL

Boy Tumbles from Fire Escape on Fifth Floor.

While playing on a fire escape on the fifth floor of a tenement house at No. 164 East 50th street last night Jeffrey Sheridan, eight years of age, tumbled over the railing and fell to the ground. Screams of several children who saw him fall summoned the boy's mother, and she rushed down to the back yard, expecting to find the boy dead. On her arrival the little fellow picked himself up, and, brushing some dirt from his clothes, walked toward her.

Picking him up in her arms, the mother carried him into the house, while friends summoned Dr. Churchill, of No. 141 East 59th street. He said that the boy had received lacerations of the right arm and cheek, but was otherwise uninjured.

TINKER IS CITY MISSIONARY

Methodist Clergyman Made Head of Episcopal Society.

The Rev. Charles P. Tinker, until recently a Methodist and holder of important Methodist charges in and near New York, has been appointed superintendent of the Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society and has accepted the position. For a year or two he has been chaplain of the Tombs prison. His society has charge of religious work on Blackwell's Island, Hart's Island, at the Potter's Field and in the prisons and hospitals of the city, including Bellevue, in so far as that work is carried on by Protestants.

The former superintendent, the Rev. Robert H. Kibber, retired to become rector of the historic St. Andrew's Church, Staten Island, after a service of ten years.

SUGAR PROFITS $13,000,000

Enormous Return in 21 Years on $500,000 Investment.

San Francisco, Aug. 1.—Profits of almost $13,000,000 on an investment of $500,000 by the Havemeyers were revealed to-day at the hearing of the government's suit to dissolve the American Sugar Refining Company. The enormous return came in twenty-one years through ownership of half the common stock of the Western Sugar Refining Company, the Spreckels concern.

An official statement of the Western Sugar Refining Company was produced and identified by W. H. Hannam, secretary. For every dollar the Havemeyers and their associates got the Spreckels party also got a dollar.

In the time elapsing between October 21 and December 27, 1921, dividends to the amount of $1,150,000 were declared and distributed. In 1922 the capital stock was reduced from $2,000,000 to $1,000,000. In accordance with this action $500,000, or half their investment, was refunded to the Havemeyers.

In the year 1888 the Western Sugar Refining Company paid $500,000, the Havemeyers getting half the yield. The biggest dividend was declared on January 29, 1923, when $2,500,000 was passed around. There were no dividends from 1904 to 1908. On November 20, 1909, another item of $2,000,000 was entered on the dividend record.

The inquiry will close to-morrow, and the government attorney will move to Salt Lake City to continue the hearing, beginning Monday.

AN HONORED AGE

Deacon White at Eighty-one Is Not Forgotten.

It seemed fitting that the stock market should be active yesterday. There was an atmosphere of celebration about it, and its active broadening was as sudden and apparently unexpected as the charity of a church mouse. But it all happened in honor of "Deacon" White, who was eighty-one years young yesterday. Stephen Van Cullen White, the "Deacon," was a figure in the Stock Exchange when Drew, Fisk, Jay Gould and the manipulators of the 60's were playing with Erie, when the gold days were full of excitement. He passed through Black Friday and rode in a Broadway coach when the old Fifth Avenue Hotel was the rendezvous of brokers. In a series of fluctuating periods of prosperity and adversity "Deacon" White has lived, lived to be loved and admired. He has been the friend of the needy and the prey of the unscrupulous, but he has lived a long, abstemious life, and the world is the better for it. He is an honorable name, better than many others to whom accolades have been tendered. His mind still retains some of the sparkle of a superior knowledge of men, markets and literature, and he is still revered in Wall Street, though he no longer follows the fractional changes of the Street.

FATAL BUILDING COLLAPSE

One Workman Killed and Five Hurt in Brooklyn.

One man was killed and five others injured yesterday when part of a new building at Hoyt and Livingston streets, Brooklyn, collapsed. Twenty men were at work on the top floor of the three-story structure when the walls spread and the steel girders were loosened. All of the workmen on the floor went down with the girders and flooring, and it was some time before the men were rescued by firemen, who were called to the scene. The crew of Truck 66 did good work in removing the heavy girders from above the injured men.

It was fully a half hour after the collapse of the building before all of the workmen had been accounted for. It was found that James Vitella, an eighteen-year-old ironworker's apprentice, was killed. He was taken to the Methodist Episcopal Hospital, where he died soon after he was placed in the reception ward.

No one seemed to know precisely why the walls should have spread and it was said that the foreman had been an extremely careful man. The police reserves were called out, and they had considerable trouble in clearing the streets, as the accident happened at the luncheon hour and there were several thousand persons in the streets who wanted to see what had taken place. The police made a thorough investigation of the probable causes of the accident, but were not able to fix the responsibility for it. There were no arrests made. All the injured men were taken to the Methodist Episcopal Hospital, where it was said that their chances for recovery were good.

AUTO'S DEATH TOLL LARGE

Month's Statistics Show No
Greater Safety in Streets.

The report of the National Highway Protective Society of persons killed and injured by vehicular traffic in the streets of New York for the month of July, 1912, shows that 52 were killed and 1,250 injured, the numbers tallying closely with the number killed and injured by similar vehicles for the corresponding month last year.

During the month of July, 1912, automobiles killed 21 and seriously injured 168; trolleys killed 12 and injured 60; wagons, 15, with 31 injured. Of the number killed, 30 were children under the age of sixteen, and 13 were trolleys and wagons 11. Twenty-four owners of automobiles were driving their cars at the time of the accidents.

For the corresponding month last year automobiles killed 19 and injured 1,131, and trolleys and wagons 13. Of this number 29 were children under the age of sixteen years, automobiles killed 15, trolleys 3 and wagons 13.

During July, 1912, in the streets and highways of New York State, exclusive of New York City, 31 persons were killed and 237 injured seriously, automobiles being responsible for the death of 24 and the injury of 157. For the corresponding period last year automobiles killed 17 and injured 155.

FEWER RULES FOR FIREMEN

First Revision Since 1905, Completed
After Nearly Year's Work.

The first revision of the rules and regulations of the New York Fire Department since 1905 has been completed and copies have been distributed among the members of the force. The new book contains only 174 sections, whereas the old one contained 243 sections. Though condensed, the new rules are complete in every way. They give the substance of all general and special orders issued since 1905. The number of words in the new book is 12,500, while the old contained 15,000.

One of the new features of the revision is that company commanders are to be called captains instead of foremen, while assistant foremen are to be called lieutenants.

The work of compiling the new book has occupied nearly a year, and was accomplished by a committee appointed by the Commissioner Johnson, composed of Deputy Commissioner George W. Olvany and Captain Edward T. Galloway of Hook and Ladder Company 23.

WILD AUTO ON BROADWAY

Driver Loses Control and Car
Injures Girl and Horse.

BOY KILLED IN PELHAM

Auto Ambulance of New York
Hospital Hurts and Helps Pedestrian.

A boy was killed, a girl received a dislocated arm, a man's leg was broken and a horse's leg was broken yesterday as the result of automobile vagaries. For two of those accidents a car which got beyond control of its driver and ran wild was responsible.

The automobile, which was owned and driven by George Bock, of Palisades Park, N. J., got beyond its owner's control and started out on a career of its own down Broadway.

Bock had come across the Hudson for a little spin, and was proceeding quietly down Broadway when the car suddenly began to veer from one side of the street to the other. He was unable to stop it or guide it.

At 12th street it struck the off horse on a butcher wagon, breaking its leg and knocking its mate to the ground. The wagon was driven by Warren Dobbs, of No. 27 West 104th street.

At 12th street the mad automobile hit Stanislas Amek, sixteen years old, of No. 52 West 125th street, who was attempting to cross the street, and ran over her, dislocating her right arm and bruising her entire body.

Patrolman Zeller, who was on post at that point, saw the accident, and running toward the car waved his arms as a signal for Bock to stop his machine. On learning that the machine was beyond the owner's control he stuck his night stick between the spokes, stopping the car.

The injured girl was taken to the J. Hood Wright Hospital by Dr. Sawyer.

An unidentified boy, about thirteen years old, died in Fordham Hospital after his admittance for injuries received when he was run over by an automobile near the Pelham Park station on Pelham Parkway.

According to the police, the boy had been riding on the back of a truck and jumped off into the path of the automobile, giving the chauffeur, Adam Clerck, of No. 88 Bradhurst avenue, no chance to stop. Two wheels passed over the boy's body. The car is owned by Charles M. Ama, of No. 55 Hamilton Terrace.

Clerk placed the unconscious form of the youngster in his machine and raced to Fordham Hospital. No arrest was made in the case.

Robert McCreery, fifty-eight years old, president of the Harbor Transportation Company, with an office in the Produce Exchange, and living in the Audinon apartments, Broadway and 83d street, was knocked down by an auto ambulance belonging to the New York Hospital at Broadway and 73d street.

He was placed in the ambulance and hurried to his apartments, where he was attended by Dr. George Kremer, of the same address, who found him suffering from a fracture of the right leg and possible internal injuries.

$150,000 FIRE AT YONKERS

Half the Department Away on Democratic Outing.

Fire which started at 9:15 last night, and was still burning early this morning, destroyed the plant of the Federal Cooperative Company and a warehouse of the Waring Hat Manufacturing Company, in Yonkers. The damage is placed at $150,000.

Traffic on the New York Central Railroad was blocked by hose stretched across the tracks. One of the trains was the Empire State Express, southbound. Passengers on this train continued their journey to New York in automobiles, cabs and by trolley and subway.

About half the members of the fire department were out of the city when the fire started. They were on the outing of the Democratic City Committee at College Point. The excursionists returned to Yonkers on the steamer Cygnus at 10:15, and the firemen hurried to the fire. Chief James J. Mulcahey was on the excursion.

TELEGRAPHERS PLAN FIGHT

Will Vote on "Liberty Day"
Demonstration for Union.

President S. J. Kosenkamp of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, who had been in London conferring with the union there, announced last night that the New York local has sent a circular letter to all the locals throughout the country asking them to take a referendum vote on the question of making August 18 a "Liberty day" for telegraphers all over the country.

It was proposed that on that day the telegraphers would hold meetings to discuss union matters all over the country in defiance of the alleged risk of being discharged. The Western Union telegraphers, he said, were discharged when it was known that they were taking an active interest in unionism.

"If the referendum vote is for the 'Liberty day' proposition," he continued, "union demonstrations of telegraphers will be held in every town and city in the United States where we have a local. It will then be a national demonstration and an ultimatum to the Western Union Telegraph Company that the telegraphers will insist on their right to join a union."

ITALIAN STABBED TO DEATH

Man Found on Tracks at Nassau
by Engineer.

(By Telegram to The Tribune.)
Glen Cove, Long Island, Aug. 1.—With his head severed, and forty stab wounds in his body, Carmella Crapa, thirty-two years of age, was found beside the Long Island Railroad tracks at the Nassau station early this morning. Crapa was a young girl.

It is now supposed that friends or relatives of these two men waylaid him last night and killed him. The murderers reversed the man's head and then placed it near the railroad tracks to create the impression that a train had run over him.

They bungled the job, however, as the engineer of the first train on the road, shortly after daylight, was the one who discovered the body.
